ABSORBS A LEAGUE

Larger Field for Anti-Saloon Work.

PROTECTIVE PLANS WILL BE FOLLOWED

Final Report of Retiring Superintendent Read and an Advisory Committee Named.

The Anti-Saloon League yesterday decided to take over the work of the Protective League, and accepted the effects of that organization, putting this branch of the work into the hands of a special committee, of which George B. McClellan is the chairman. The final report of the retiring superintendent, the Rev. L. M. Hartley, was read and filed, and a committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the occasion of the departure of the official.

The meeting of the league was well attended. When the hour set arrived the office of the league in the McIntyre building was well filled, there being not less than twenty members in attendance. President Theodore Richards was in the chair and Richard H. Trent acted as Secretary. The first business was that in connection with the work of the Protective League. The committee which had been appointed for the purpose of considering plans for the taking over of the work and effects of the league, reported a plan which brought out much discussion.

The plan finally adopted provides for a constitutional amalgamation of the two bodies, with the control of the trust in the hands of a special committee, of which Mr. McClellan is the head. This will put the matters of the league in the hands of the men who pushed it before.

The committee which had been appointed for the purpose of considering the matter of the appointment of an advisory committee to act with the new superintendent, the Rev. W. H. Rice, reported that the plan was advisable and the following were named as the committee: The Revs. G. L. Pearson and W. D. Westervelt, W. A. Bowen, Theodore Richards and W. C. Weedon. This brought the league to the consideration of the final report of Mr. Hartley, and after it had been read a committee was appointed to draft resolutions testifying to the work done by the retiring superintendent, and of the appreciation of his labors. The report of Mr. Hartley is as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen—In making a final report of my short superintendency with you, it may not be amiss to give a brief resume of the six and one-half months' work.

The Territory of Hawaii is not more singular in its location than in its history, composition, law and sentiment. The exceptional peculiarity of the situation required that time be spent in observation and research before a stranger could know where and how to begin operations. Meanwhile acquaintance was being made here with the leaguers, churches and people. The organization also was being strengthened and completed and suitable rooms sought for headquarters. The room finally secured for headquarters and furnished with roll-top desk, table, chairs, telephone, stationery, etc., namely, No. 9 McIntyre building, in which we are now assembled, has proven to be a very good selection and entirely satisfactory.

TEMPERANCE EDUCATION.
Recognizing that the application of morals to government is largely a matter of education, we have quickened the work of temperance education in the Band of Hope, the Sunday Schools, the Young People's Christian Societies and various Mission Schools. Furthermore, we have secured the first fulfillment in this Territory of the Congressional law, placing scientific temperance instruction in all the public schools for both primary and advanced classes. This marks an epoch in the advancement of temperance throughout these islands.

MORAL SUASION.
We have fostered a continuous work of moral suasion, engaging in frequent and regular meetings, through which drinking men are being influenced to leave their cups and join with others in a sober life. There is now a very encouraging list of these, which is growing larger as the weeks go by.

SUCCESSFUL AGITATION.
Upon the Islands of Oahu, Hawaii and Maui, your superintendent has scattered thousands of pages of temperance literature and delivered some fifty addresses of agitation and encouragement, stirring pastors, churches, press and people to unite for immediate results, practical and available. Among these results has been the conclusion of a number of licenses, applied for, by proper influence upon the officers of the government. Also the securing of the adoption of certain rules of "local option," to be applied to different neighborhoods throughout the group. Under these rules, numerous denunciations of protest are now being signed, on various Islands, against license applications, and we hope to win these cases like all the others we have undertaken.

LAW ENFORCEMENT.
The league has exercised due diligence to assist in the proper enforcement of the temperance provisions of our existing laws. Most competent authority informs me that the existence of our organization with its committee on law enforcement and its firm of anti-saloon attorneys, have worked already a marked decrease in the infractions of the law on the part of saloon people. We have now upon the press a booklet of some fifty pages containing a digest and context of all the laws in this Territory regarding alcoholic liquors. A copy will be sent to each of the subscribers and all who desire can receive the same from this office.

LEGISLATION.

The league has taken a live interest also in further temperance legislation. Many prominent citizens have been conferred with in the effort to secure the consensus of the best citizenship as to what is practicable to be undertaken in the next session, that it may be early announced and fully considered by all.

FINANCE.

Our cause has so commended itself that it has required no great effort, on the part of the superintendent, though a stranger, to see to it that money enough was in the treasury to pay every bill promptly, when due, without overdraw.

The generosity of this people is such that in a single evening's service in the Central Union Church, held last November 24th, subscriptions were received amounting to over $2,000. A morning service in the Christian Church and also one in the Methodist Church, together with an evening service in the Japanese Temperance Society, and one service in the church at Ewa Mills, yielded subscriptions of nearly another thousand, and private canvasses have brought over a thousand more, so that, distinct from assets already on hand, the middle of last June, increase has been made there-to of not less than $4,000. Moreover, but one-sixth of our regular subscribers, whose subscriptions expire with the next quarter, have renewed to December 31, 1902. These renewals aggregate a good increase over the former subscriptions made by the same parties. It is my judgment that the majority of the remaining five-sixths will cheerfully renew when the present subscriptions expire and the opportunity is properly given, and that their subscriptions will show proportional increase. Furthermore, there are many on Oahu who have not yet had opportunity to subscribe, and upon no other Island of the group has the opportunity been given at all. Give all the good people a right good chance, and all requisite funds are fully assured.

SUGGESTIONS.

Without presuming to make recommendations I will, at the request of my successor in office, offer a few suggestions for future:

1.—That a convention for Honolulu be held as early as practicable, in which all the people shall be rallied by good music and brief, earnest speeches from pastors and many laymen into still greater interest and effort—increasing the essential sentiment that secures the desired success.

2.—That the engagement for special work in Hilo and throughout the Isle of Hawaii then be fulfilled and others made and filled throughout the group of Islands, until from this capital city and this headquarters office—through the local leagues organized wherever they are practicable, and where they are not, through representative residents secured, who will circulate literature, secure signatures or what not—direction, encouragement and inspiration shall be available to every neighborhood in this Territory.

3.—That you continually keep before you the legislature of January, 1903, as the objective of your work through 1902. May you utilize every opportunity to cultivate the acquaintance and influence of every leading mind of whatever party or race, securing, if possible, his co-operation. If that is not possible, if you can secure his sympathy, you will spike his gun of opposition or at least soften his shot. Leaders are not so numerous as to render this impracticable. The policy already outlined for a corrected, matured and finished "Act" providing a government dispensary system with local option, is, in my judgment, the best that is yet obtainable. Various leaders have suggested to me that it should be early listed as a sure issue in the political campaign. And I think they are right.

FINALLY.

You have an important mid-ocean field, rendered more strategic by its mid-racial population. Your organization is now thoroughly started with the confidence and co-operation of the best and strongest citizens. Your opportunity is very great. I am sure you will fully meet it.

Again expressing regret for the untimely necessity to my wife, which tears me from your very congenial association and most promising field, all too soon, and thanking you beyond words for your unvarying courtesy, cordial co-operation and warm friendship, and also assuring you that wide waters cannot quench my live interest in you and your great work in this lovely loveland, I remain,

Yours very respectfully,

L. M. HARTLEY,

Superintendent to Dec. 31, 1901.

ANOTHER EXPERT IN AGRICULTURE

Prof. Scribner Will Shortly Visit
Honolulu on Way to the Philippines.

Early in January another expert in agricultural matters appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture will be in Honolulu on his way to the Philippines, and may remain here a short time. Prof. F. Lamson-Scribner, at present chief of the Bureau of Agrostology, has been designated to establish the Bureau of Agriculture in the Philippines. He will establish a complete bureau to investigate present agricultural conditions in the archipelago, to disseminate knowledge of advanced agricultural methods and to assist in the fullest development of the practically unlimited agricultural possibilities of the islands.

Prof. Scribner's appointment was made by the Secretary of War recently in pursuance of an act of the United States Philippine Commission. That legislation created, "under the Department of the Interior, an insular bureau of agriculture, which shall conduct investigations and disseminate useful information with reference to the agricultural resources of the Philippine Islands, the methods of cultivation at present in vogue and their improvement, the practicability of introducing new and valuable agricultural products, the introduction of new domesticated animals and the improvement of the breeds of domesticated animals now found in the islands, and shall in general seek to promote the development of the agricultural resources of the archipelago." The territorial field of the new bureau is to include "the government farms at Magalang, in the province of Pampanga, and at LaCarlota, in the province of Western Negros, and the government agricultural experiment

Figures Won't Lie
But Liars Will Figure.*WHAT YOU SEE IN OUR ADS. IS SO.

DISRAELI once said that there were three kinds of inaccuracy—"lies, d-d lies and statistics."

The art of advertising, it appears, had not been much cultivated in old England in those days.

Had he lived in these degenerate days, the great commoner would doubtless have substituted "advertisements" for "statistics."

We are pleased to note, however, that lying ads. are less prevalent than of yore.

Merchants, even of mediocre ability, are beginning to realize that misstatements are mighty poor policy.

But whatever the policy, no untruths shall creep into these ads—not if we know it.

THE CHRISTMAS SPREAD ON THE LINER CITY OF PEKING

Steward Johnson of the steamship City of Peking deserves credit for the prettiest Christmas decorations seen on any steamer that has entered Honolulu for many a Yuletide.

They have been so much admired that the steamship will keep open house today that Honolulu may have an opportunity to go aboard and inspect them, and Steward Johnson will be on hand to receive the visitors. Always a favorite with the passengers, who depend upon him to satisfy their innermost wants on every day they are at sea, Steward Johnson on this last Christmas day gladdened the hearts of the few passengers that came from the Orient this trip in such a way that if any were homesick for a Christmas celebration on terra firma, it was dispelled by the genial major domo of the dining saloon. To begin with, the steward had been preparing for the event for many trips. In the port of Hongkong he purchased nearly a thousand beautiful silk flags, dainty little emblems which would fill in with the general decorative scheme. There were also beautiful potted clematis, camellias, cypress and cedar. Small Christmas trees were sent aboard and stored away. When Christmas morning broke upon the Pacific, the City of Peking was decked out in its holiday attire. At the main heads were bunches of evergreens, but it was the dining saloon which was artistically arrayed in Santa Claus finery. The slender pillars were entwined with cedar and cypress, surmounted by sprays of holly set off by the bright colors of small flags. Festoons of cedar intertwining with glistening Christmas tinsel were suspended from pillar to pillar and over the tables. Even tiny bits of mistletoe were not lacking, hanging in places least suspected, but there was a dearth of femininity aboard on this trip, and the true import of the pretty greens of sentimental history was almost lost on the wide expanse of the Pacific. Pots of oleanders and camellias in full bloom were set here and there, with artistic effect. The stair case was a marvel of rich colors in flags, natural blossoms and artificial flowers. Everywhere were greens and flags and good cheer. Upon the main stair landing was a small Christmas tree decorated with pretty little baubles, and at the opposite end of the saloon was a taller tree brought in its array of tinsel and candles. Then came the Christmas dinner amidst the Yuletide surroundings. Among the good things Steward Johnson had the finest of fruit cakes, frosted over and lettered, lit by miniature candles, and English plum pudding as appetizing as if served in England itself. This was the fine spread of which the officers and passengers partook.

combined in one man. Nothing has yet been really determined, however as to the size or personnel of Professor Scribner's staff or the number of his assistants which his bureau may finally require.

A. J. Snell wanted to attend a party, but was afraid to do so on account of pains in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was telling my troubles to a lady friend, who said: 'Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will put you in condition for the party.' I bought a bottle and took pleasure in stating that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Sumner Hill, N. Y.
